Caribbean Alliance of National Psychological Associations

CRCP2016 CARIBBEAN REGIONAL CONFERENCE OF PSYCHOLOGY Haiti, November 7-11, 2016

The Caribbean Alliance of National Psychological Associations (CANPA) hereby announces the upcoming Caribbean Regional Conference of Psychology, CRCP 2016, to be held in Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, from November 7-11, 2016. Our hosts will be the Association Haitienne de Psychologie and the theme of CRCP 2016 is Promoting Caribbean Health With Multiculturalism and Multilingualism: Challenges and Opportunities.

The Conference theme seeks to highlight the importance of promoting health in the Caribbean Region with an understanding and appreciation of the multicultural and multilingual nature of the region. The Caribbean region, a mosaic of different cultures and languages, is an ideal context in which to promote a useful and informed discourse about multiculturalism and multilingualism for development. Using health as a landscape allows the opportunity to unpack the existing challenges and opportunities in promoting human development while employing and celebrating the rich cultural diversity of the Caribbean. The presentations from regional and international psychologists will address issues that impact on our psycho-social development in the wider Caribbean.

CRCP 2016 plans to promote the growth of psychology and its services, through regional and international collaboration and professional networking. We anticipate that this conference will enhance the welfare of our people across the region through improved clinical and healthcare services, consultation, teaching and research. Hosting the conference in Haiti at this time will also afford conference participants in “real time” to assess, create, disseminate, and train participants in disaster mental health in the Caribbean.

CANPA hereby invites those interested in the wellness of the larger Caribbean region to participate in CRCP 2016. We also welcome sponsors and supporters who would like to join us in this event.
